The law limits how long you can be sued on a debt. Because of the age of your debt, you cannot be sued for it. The current creditor or debt collector believes that the legal time limit (statute of limitations) for suing you to collect this debt has expired. Even if the statute of limitations is expired, you may choose to make payments on the debt. However, be aware that if you make a payment on the debt, admit to owing the debt, promise to pay the debt, or waive the statute of limitations on the debt, the time period in which the debt is enforceable in court may start again.
